

Horse-Car Mishap Claims Second Life

Annette Jordan, 4, passenger in a car which killed a teenager on horseback in Jonesboro Wednesday, died Thursday night in Grady Hospital, Clayton County Coroner Pope Dickson said.

The child suffered massive head injuries, he said.

She was riding with her mother and two brothers and another woman when the car struck James Allen Huie, 14, son of a former Jonesboro councilman.

Young Huie had started to gallop from his driveway across Georgia 54 after his riding companion, Judy Cash, also 14, whose horse had bolted. Clayton County police said the car apparently swerved to miss the first horse and struck the second one.
